Who are CORU?

CORU is the official body that regulates Health and Social Care Professionals in Ireland.

If you wish to work in a profession that is regulated by CORU, you must first register with CORU. It is a legal requirement. Registration helps protect the public and shows that you meet the required standards to work in your profession in Ireland. It also allows you to use a protected professional title, helping you to advance your career in health and social care.

Commonly Aligned Standards

CORU has compared and assessed the Standards of Proficiency in Ireland against the Standards of Proficiency in the UK (including Northern Ireland).

The UK standards align with the Irish standards for the majority of professions that CORU regulates, the exceptions being Medical Scientists and Speech and Language Therapists.

A new fast-track pathway to registration with CORU was created, called the Commonly Aligned Standards (CAS) pathway. This pathway does not require the assessment of your qualification, there are significantly fewer documents to submit as part of your application, and the timeline for entry onto the CORU Register is greatly reduced by the creation of this pathway.

If you are a member of any of the following professions and are eligible to register with the UK/NI regulator body, then you can apply via this fast-track pathway and follow the 3 simple steps on the following pages to register with CORU.

▶ Dietitians

▶ Optometrists

▶ Dispensing Opticians

▶ Occupational Therapists

▶ Podiatrists

▶ Physiotherapists

▶ Radiographers

▶ Radiation Therapists

▶ Social Workers
